Shoeboxed and Outright.com Launch Integration To Streamline Online Receipt Management and Bookkeeping

Services join forces to turn your paper receipts into easy business deductions

DURHAM, NC and CAMPBELL, CA – Shoeboxed, the leader in online receipt management, and Outright.com, the easiest way for self-employed people to manage their bookkeeping, have partnered to allow receipts scanned and uploaded into Shoeboxed to flow seamlessly into Outright.com's online bookkeeping software. This partnership is the first use of Shoeboxed's new API.

With Shoeboxed's mail-in scanning service, users can now send paper receipts in to Shoeboxed and have them scanned and data-entered into their online accounts. Now, those receipts can be automatically synchronized with Outright.com's bookkeeping application. This streamlines the time-consuming tasks of organizing receipts and accurate bookkeeping for both home-based and small businesses.

To achieve this tight integration of the two applications, Outright.com is taking advantage of Shoeboxed's new API, which makes it possible to automatically update user information each night, once users agree to integrate their Shoeboxed and Outright.com accounts. Users can view the electronic copy of each receipt from within Outright.com and, to further simplify the task of properly completing a Schedule C form, expenses synched with Outright.com inherit the tax categories assigned within Shoeboxed.

About Outright.com (http://www.outright.com)

Outright.com develops "dead simple" software for self-employed individuals, work-at-home people, sole proprietors, micro-businesses and anyone that files a Schedule C tax return. Our software helps you track income and expenses, pay estimated taxes on time, and see how your business is doing. Outright.com was designed by former Intuit employees who realized that existing personal finance and small-business finance applications simply don't address the needs of self-employed people. Outright.com is completely web-based, safe and secure.
